

HE IS JUGGED AGAIN.

Club-keeper McWilliams Arrested
By the Police.

WAS LET OUT FROM THE COUNTY JAIL

On Bonds, and Had Not Fled the City as Chief Lindsey Asserted.

Club-keeper John H. McWilliams who gave bail and was let out of the county jail last Friday was re-arrested last evening by the police on the charge of selling liquor.

At about 5 o'clock McWilliams was seated in the sheriff's office when Sergeant Steele entered. Steele said, "Hello, Mac; come here I want to see you." McWilliams complied and went out into the hall and was arrested on a warrant and marched down to the police headquarters, where he was locked up. In the police court today his case was continued until next Thursday and Judge Essminger fixed his bond at $500.

Ex-Sheriff John Wilkerson, accompanied by M. Frishman, one of McWilliams' bondsmen, to the police headquarters today and made a formal demand for the release of McWilliams, showing the bond duly signed and accepted. The chief looked at the bond and said: "We won't let him out on that."

It is doubtful if McWilliams can give an additional $500 bond. McWilliams intends to bring habeas corpus proceedings to secure his release. The police guard him closely, and the officers around the jail have instructions to let no visitors see him.

The motives of the police in making the arrest are not so lofty as to be above criticism. The charge against him is selling liquor, on which McWilliams practically admits in his affidavit, charging the police department with receiving hush money. There are a dozen other jointists as guilty as McWilliams on bond, but they are not molested by the police. It therefore appears evident that retaliation or intimidation is the motive that prompted the arrest.

A county officer said to a JOURNAL reporter today: "The police arrested McWilliams to intimidate him. They want to get him to take back what he has said, or make it as awful unpleasant for him. They will find him guilty of selling liquor, and then say to him: 'If you will get out of town and not testify against us we will let you out; but if you come back we will make you serve out your sentence on the rock pile.' They think this will be some inducement for him to back down. The police also made this move to scare out the other jointists who were in danger of making affidavits against them similar to McWilliams'."

About McWilliams' Release.
McWilliams' bondsmen are M. Frishman, a clerk in Richardson's store, and John W. Dalton, of Wamego. Mr. Dalton qualified in the sum of $1,400 and returned to the sheriff a list of all his personal property to show that he is "good for it."

Sheriff Burdge says there was nothing irregular about the release of McWilliams, that he simply gave bond and was released. He received no privileges at the county jail and was not even a trusty. Deputy Sheriff Tom Wilkerson went up to Wamego with McWilliams to get bond and the fact that McWilliams stayed around Topeka and was expecting to go to work in the Santa Fe machine shop soon would not indicate that he intended to jump his bond. Sheriff Burdge says Chief Lindsey doesn't know what he is talking about when he says McWilliams was "spirited away secretly."

However, no information was given to the newspaper reporters of any of the Topeka details that McWilliams had been let out of jail, and they did not learn of it until Monday.

If representatives of the newspapers were informed more promptly of matters pertaining to the courts it might prevent false impressions from being given out.

GEORGE AND FRANK.

The Hack Business Isn't Good Now—A Light Docket in Police Court.

This morning was too sleepy to allow a very big crowd at police court, and there was an unusual absence of the regular attendants on the benches before the bar. Even Smoky Row had been neglected.

George Butts was the first man called. George owns a hack and leases it to Frank Heudricks. Frank seems to have been a little behind with his rent and Butts went down to the Santa Fe depot to see about it.

Frank said that the times had been hard and the street car competition had been so damaging to his business of late that he really didn't have the money to spare just then. George said he was very sorry and so refused to let the two friends become in their expressions of regret that George now carries a black eye and Frank has a hole in his pants leg where George had playfully inserted his knife blade to show how sharp it was.

Police Officer Lytle arrived just then, and, being in a playful mood himself, he also joined in the sport. It was hard to tell which had the best of the game, and after mature deliberation it was decided to leave it to a board of arbitration, which should consist of Judge Essminger. After hearing all the evidence the judge decided the game against Heudricks and he lost his bet of five dollars to the city and paid it. George was released.

Thomas Wilson is a little man with an erect carriage and bumps on his nose that occur with the regularity of hiccoughs. He was charged with having been in that last condition while he was understood by all members of the guzzler's club.

"Well, yer honor," said Tom, "ye see I was travelin'."

"You are charged with being drunk," interrupted the court.

"Well, as I said before, I was jest a travelin'."

"Are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Guess I was drunk, but ye see I'd been trav'—"

"Well, you needn't travel for five days," said the judge; "five dollars."

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Items of Interest About Topeka People and Visitors in Town.

The night blooming cereus social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Mulvane last evening was well attended and about twenty dollars was realized for the cottage fund of the Ottawa university. The buds did not open, however, and many were disappointed, although socially the affair was most charming.

The house was prettily decorated and fruit nectar and punch were served throughout the evening. In the parlors the various shades of hellebore prevailed, sweet-peas were in the sitting room and many varieties of scarlet and yellow blossoms brightened the dining room and library.

The night blooming cereus will probably open Thursday evening and all interested in watching the petals unfold are invited to go and see them.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Langdon entertained forty-five friends last evening at their home, 116 Buchanan street, in honor of their son Alexander, of Kansas City. The lawn was lighted with Japanese lanterns and music furnished by a phonograph. Refreshments were served.

HOW ABOUT THE CORN.

Largely Destroyed in the Western Part of the State,

BUT GOOD IN THE EASTERN.

The Hot Winds Did Very Great Damage as Far East as Saline County—Good Rain in the Eastern Tier.

The reports received in Topeka during the last few days from unofficial though reliable sources all agree that the dry, hot winds which have been blowing over Kansas for a week have worked great damage to the growing crops, and in most of the extreme western counties, and even as far east as Saline county, everything is said to be "burnt up."

Railroad Commissioner W. D. Vincent, who came down from his home at Clay Centre last night, says: "Everything is as dry as powder in Clay county, and although we still have some late corn which is not burnt up, it will soon go if we don't have rain. The early corn is all gone."

Railroad Commissioner John Hall, who made a trip west over the Union Pacific last week, says the farmers are cutting their corn up for fodder as far east as Wamego.

Mr. Charles S. Martin of the Republican state central committee office force, who came in last evening from Salina, says everything in the way of crops is burnt up in Saline county, and the outlook is the worst that county has ever seen in eastern Kansas.

W. L. Brown of Kingman, secretary of the state senate, says upland corn in Kingman county is badly burned, and will not make over half a crop, while bottom corn is yet all right.

Travelers from farther west say that everything is completely burned up from Sedford county west, although there are spots even in the western portion of the state where local rains have brightened up the prospects very materially.

The eastern part of the state particularly the two eastern tiers of counties were visited with good rains Sunday and as usual a good corn crop will be raised in eastern Kansas.

Secretary Coburn of the state board of agriculture, who will in a few days issue his crop report for July, said to a JOURNAL reporter this morning:

"It would certainly be a very ignorant or very dishonest person who claimed that the recent extremely warm and drying weather had not worked serious injury to growing corn over a very considerable portion of Kansas; in fact there are many localities where the crop must be practically a failure. On the other hand there is much territory where the conditions have been favorable every day of the season, and there the crop promises all that could be desired. Kansas can be counted on for many millions of bushels, and of course the distribution as to yield will be very unequal; some counties are likely to have a generous surplus, and others I fear almost none."

"Various of the best corn counties had not suffered materially before and on Saturday night and Sunday they had rains sufficient to insure the crop. It is a characteristic of our people to make extreme estimates. Those who raised wheat are almost invariably threatening a heavier yield and of a better quality than they dared hope for six weeks ago, and all anticipate many counties where corn has been and is reported as 'all burnt up' will yet be boasting of their good crop."

SAYS HE IS BLACKLISTED.

C. W. Redden Complains That a White Ribbon Knocked Him Out.

C. W. Redden has a tale of woe to tell about being refused a recommendation by Master Car Builder Hodge of the Santa Fe, because he had worn a white ribbon during the strike trouble. Redden had been employed here for the past four years, but quit a short time before the recent layoff on his own account.

A few days ago he applied at the Missouri Pacific shops at Osawatimie for work. He was told to get a recommendation from the Santa Fe shops officials here. This he proceeded to do and was told that there was nothing against him. He was then asked if he had not worn a white ribbon and he said he had. The recommendation was then refused, he says. Redden is now out of a job and can get no certificate of fidelity from his former employers.
